SLW Hall of Fame to Add Two
Front Office Contemplates Bringing Back 6 Balls per Batter

Colorado Springs, Colo. – In a press conference earlier today, Commissioner Hixson announced that two would be added to the Shangri La' Wiffleball Hall of Fame at the 14th Annual Classic. The two new members will be announced later this week on an SLW Podcast with Cain and Hixson.

"After much discussion in the front office, it was determined that two wifflers had the credentials to be inducted into the Hall," Hixson stated. "It is truly an honor to be a part of this group and we are anxious to reveal the new members."

Tenacious E lead guitarist Matt Endsley had a different outlook. "Why do we need to have anyone else in this club?"

Later in the address, Hixson revealed that the rules committee is examining the pros and cons of the 'six ball rule'. "In the early days of the league, batters had six balls and three strikes to work with. Wiffleball is a game that is very hard on the pitcher. If the slightest bit of wind comes up during the delivery, the pitcher has no control. If the rule goes into effect, the men on the mound at Shangri La' stand to benefit the most."

Finally, the front office wishes to get in contact with the elusive Hall of Famer Spencer Hasler. Hasler has changed both his home and cell phone numbers making him impossible to reach. Any information allowing the league office to get in touch with the legend will be rewarded on wiffleball weekend.

Entry fee is due by NO LATER than Monday, June 11th. At that time, the draft pool will be finalized and no other players will be included.
